LAST CALL!
MEMBERSHIP RENEWAL

Every six years each parish in the Church of England has to renew its membership list from scratch. 2019 is such a year, which means that all our members need to register, regardless of how long they have been a member of St Paul's! The deadline for registration is this Friday. The easiest way to register is online at www.spkb.org/member.

If you'd prefer a paper form, these are available at the back of church or from the parish office.

If you don't register you will fall off our membership list!

"OVER THERE"

One of my favourite numbers by the comic singing group Fascinating Aida is a song about the desire to escape the chaotic frenzy of life here and to head, metaphorically, for the far-away hills. With typically brilliant rhymes, verse two ends: "...there's a good life to be had/ far away from the Jihad/ as neighbours of Bilbo and Frodo...", before leading into the very singable refrain, "Suddenly New Zealand doesn't seem so boring, suddenly New Zealand seems attractively remote, lots of sheep and lambs, and sheep, and lambs, and sheep....and the occasional goat." Google it: I promise you'll smile.

On Friday at lunchtime, the idyll of life in New Zealand was shattered as 49 men and women were killed and another 40 or so wounded in two coordinated Islamophobic terrorist attacks on Muslims attending Friday Prayers at their Mosques in Christchurch. Those whose lives were ended, and perhaps even more so those whose lives have been blighted by injury and the loss of loved ones, are in our prayers.

In the global wave of journalistic comment that followed the atrocity, one theme recurred: that this was the last thing you'd have expected 'over there.' It is an interesting thought, isn't it? 'Over there' it is safer.

This way of thinking has less to do with an honest risk assessment of life in New Zealand than it has to do with a phenomenon of human thinking that often expresses itself in the view that 'the grass on the other side is greener.' It is – technically – an avoidant, 'schizoid' way of thinking in which we neatly separate the confusing intermingling of good and bad and put one in one place and the other in another. Schizo, from the Greek, means 'split' or 'cut' or 'divided'. So we say, "London is complex, noisy and dangerous, New Zealand is verdant, pleasant and remote" and that is easier to deal with than the acknowledgement that there is good and evil in both places. This pattern of 'schizoid' thinking is the same mental reflex that makes us feel better when someone is blamed and, as we say, scapegoated: "I am all good, and they are all bad, and that's much easier to live with than the acknowledgement that there is good and bad in us all." At its worst, the schizoid tendency allows us to see others as the 'evil enemy', and to resort to their destruction.

Lent is a time to come home to our true selves and to face into the complex experience of human life. We are – we are assured – created by a loving God in his image and are beautiful, gifted and called; and at the same time we carry within ourselves a propensity for sin and darkness; both aspects of our humanity are real. We struggle with this, just as St Paul our patron wrestles with this reality in his letter to the Romans: "For the good that I would I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do." (Romans 7). Self-righteousness is the schizoid pretence that we are simply 'good people'. Spiritual maturity and wholeness are rooted in the assertion that we are a complex mixture of light and dark and more, that God's love for and acceptance of us has nothing to do with our goodness; spiritual healing begins when we open up our lives to the possibility that this astonishing claim might actually be true, that God desires for us the best and fullest experience of life and that his Spirit is at work in the world, embracing us as we are. And Lent is a season for spiritual healing.

All of this requires honesty, boldness and a degree of self-knowledge – oh, and a community in which to find the support that makes this view of life bearable. Schizoid existence is so much easier: but so much less rewarding.

Monday 20th – Thursday 23rd May 2019

Join Fr Alan Gyle on our pilgrimage to Chartres – the first of two foreign pilgrimages in 2019 to sites of some of the most distinguished stained glass in Europe.

Each day will include a time of prayer, some study and learning, a visit to the Cathedral and Stained Glass Institute nearby, and time for self-guided exploration, rest or leisure activities. Each evening we will eat together.

As is customary on our trips, pilgrims will make their own travel and accommodation arrangements and the cost of the evening meal will be divided equitably. Sign-up fee: £95 to cover local tours and admin costs.

Full details - including transport and hotel suggestions – and sign-up details at www.spkb.org/chartres, or by calling the parish office.
